How to Apply for ICF/DD Services

To apply for ICF/DD services, you must contact your local Medicaid office. The Medicaid office will assess your need for services and determine if you are eligible.

What to Expect from an ICF/DD Program

If you are approved for ICF/DD services, you will be placed in a program that is appropriate for your needs. ICF/DD programs vary in size and setting, but all programs must meet certain standards of care.

These standards include:

*

- Providing a safe and homelike environment

*

- Offering a variety of services to meet the needs of individuals

*

- Having qualified staff who are trained to provide care to individuals with developmental disabilities

*

- Ensuring that individuals have opportunities to participate in community activities

Benefits of ICF/DD Programs

ICF/DD programs can provide a number of benefits to individuals with developmental disabilities, including:

*

- Improved quality of life

*

- Increased independence

*

- Enhanced socialization skills

*

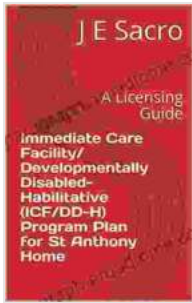

- Access to necessary medical and therapeutic services

*

- Peace of mind for family members

ICF/DD programs provide essential services to individuals with developmental disabilities. These programs can help individuals develop skills, live independently, and improve their quality of life. If you are
